N. E. WASHINGTON LOCALS

Reported Specially for the CITIZEN.

Wm. J. Rooney died Tuesday evening after a long illness. The funeral took place yesterday from his late residence, 1215 F Street.

Business is increasing so rapidly that I will put in a telephone next week for my own use and for the use of my friends and the general public. In the meantime let that spring suit come right along. Philip Lederer, dyer, 1203 H St., N. E.

Mr. J. J. O'Keefe, an old Northeast Washington boy, is now doing a nice business at 1116 7th St., N. W.

Mr. Louis Rosenberg opens his new shoe store at 819 H Street today. Good serviceable shoes at low prices will be his motto.

BENNING LOCALS.

Reported Specially for the Citizen.

The Benning drug store was sold at auction yesterday.

There will be a big change made at the Abattoir the first of next week.

A young colored man attached to the races brought smallpox here from New Orleans Tuesday morning. Sixteen other men came in the same car, but most of them were gathered in and taken to the detention camp. An epidemic is looked for and there is general consternation hereabouts.

Mr. Will Brooks and Miss Nettie Weeden are reported to have been quietly married Wednesday evening.

EDWIN OBED STANARD

TALKED OF AS M'KINLEY'S POSSIBLE RUNNING MATE.

St. Louis Has a Candidate for That Office in Edwin Obed Stanard—His Only Political Office Was That of Lieutenant-Governor.

St. Louis has a candidate for the vice-presidency on the republican ticket in the person of Edwin Obed Stanard, ex-lieutenant-governor of Missouri and ex-congressman. He is one of the leading citizens of St. Louis, and has been identified with its public enterprise for many years. He has been president of the Merchants' Exchange, the St. Louis exposition and a leader in the Autumnal Festivities association, out of which grew the Business Men's league, besides serving on committees or at the head of countless public enterprises, whether of commercial, social, political or religious character.

Gov. Stanard's political career is comprised, practically, between the years 1868 and 1872, during which he served as lieutenant-governor of the state and representative of one of the St. Louis districts in congress. While serving in congress, he was instrumental in securing the adoption of the Eads jetty system.

Gov. Stanard comes of good New England stock. Both of his great-grandfathers served with distinction in the revolutionary war. His mother came of the famous Webster family, being a cousin of Daniel Webster. Gov. Stanard was born at Newport, N. H., in 1832, and four years later his father, Obed Stanard, moved to Iowa. The west has since been his home. In politics Gov. Stanard is an uncompromising republican, and in religion a Methodist.

Where We Get Caviare.

Caviare is consumed in vast quantities all over the Russian empire. It is also sent to Italy, Germany, France and England and is largely eaten in this country. Caviare is a shining brown substance in little globules, looking exactly like little brambleberries. It is obtained from sturgeon in March by millions on their spawning beds in the mouth of the Danube, the Dniester, the Don and the Volga rivers, where both nets and hooks are used to capture the fish. After the membrane of the roe has been removed the grains are washed with vinegar of the cheap white wines of the country. Then they are dried in the air, salted, put into bags and pressed and packed in casks. It is one of the most important articles of Russian trade, the sales reaching annually over $10,000,000. The importation of caviare to America is increasing yearly. In 1899 it was double that of the previous year.

FANCIES OF THE CZARINA.

One Is For Wonderful Russian Lace and Another for Black Roses.

The czarina has aroused the wrath of all her court ladies and, rumor says, of the czar himself, by her studied simplicity in dress. She heartily dislikes gorgeous clothes, and if she consulted her own wishes would seldom wear jewels; but she has one enthusiasm, and that is for the Russian lace which is made only for the Russian imperial family. Years ago a tribe of lace makers lived near Archangel and made by hand a deep yellow lace of marvelous design and texture. The Empress Marie, wife of Alexander II., developed a passion for this lace, and, being a woman of whims, sent for the lace workers, about 200 in all, and forced them to leave their homes and settle in St. Petersburg. The story of their captivity and homesickness is a pathetic one. The older women of the tribe died, one after another, of homesickness and age, but the younger, less submissive, were in perpetual rebellion. Many of them escaped and rejoined their husbands and lovers, and the emperor threatened to send the couples to Siberia, but the empress, feeling a slight responsibility in the matter, intervened. The girls who stayed in the palace married and were well provided for, but only a few of them are still living, and they are kept busy making lace for the czarina. Another fad of the czarina is the black rose, which has made a sensation in St. Petersburg. A florist named Fetisoff has produced in his garden a rose jet black in color, and the finest specimens are owned by the czarina.

TANNED HUMAN SKIN.

Used as the Growsome Binding for Some Famous Books.

The skin of William Corder, the murderer of Maria Martin, was used for the binding of a book containing a biographical sketch of the murderer, and this book with its growsome binding is to be found in the library of Trinity college, Cambridge. M. Flammarion had in his possession a book bound in the skin of the woman he loved in vain. The lovely countess, whose white and gleaming shoulders had stirred his admiration before her death, bequeathed him the skin that covered her form, upon which he had gazed with such pleasure. She also left a letter desiring the astronomer to use her skin to bind the wonderful work in which he speaks so eloquently of the glimmering world of stars, and Flammarion did not hesitate to fulfill the last wish of this most eccentric of women. Andre Le Roy had at one time in his possession a volume bound in the skin of Delille, the poet. A book entitled "Principles of Practical Anatomy," written by Prof. Leydy of Jefferson Medical college, Philadelphia, was bound in human skin, and is now in the Rusk library.

Vast Possibilities of Russia.

Should Russia ultimately succeed in her scheme for dominating Asia, she will become mistress of some 800,000,000 people.

PRINCE CHRISTIAN VICTOR.

Prince Christian Victor of Schleswig-Holstein, the queen's grandson, who is fighting the Boers in South Africa, has been a familiar figure in recent British wars. He is an officer in the King's Royal rifles, and is 32 years old. In the Ashantee war of 1895-6 and in the Nile expedition of last year he greatly distinguished himself. At Oxford Prince Christian was known as an athlete. He has been employed in active military service almost continuously since he left college. He is the eldest son of the queen's daughter Helena, and was born at Windsor.
